The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scripture" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Let us learn of the real and eternal, and prepare for the reign of Spirit, the kingdom of heaven,—the reign and rule of universal harmony, which cannot be lost nor remain forever unseen" (page 208.)

1939 MAY BRING MAJOR WORLD CRISIS

If the outlook for the new year lacks the optimism with which businessmen desire to shape their plans for the advancement of industry, the gloom was neutralized somewhat by the fact that there was every indication that some progress would be made and business generally in Cameron was prepared to greet 1939 with slightly higher hopes than in the previous year.

The year 1939 saw little progress made. Business generally was held to an average level. Merchants here report a good holiday business, comparing favorably with the volume of the previous year and with recent rainfalls in the county, farm operations were due to begin shortly after the old year had checked out in favor of 1939.

Restricted cotton acreage for 1939 was a certainty. The farmers have voted overwhelmingly to cut down production of our major crop and while this condition will prohibit any material increase in business and farm income, government subsidies and price control will fix within reasonable limitations the price and income to be had from agriculture during the coming year. Based on these certainties business was prepared to go along and make the best of conditions.

Cameron businessmen were inclined to view with optimism the national outlook especially with the incoming Congress making large appropriations for war preparations which will stimulate a number of the basic industries of the country. This will result in temporary rise in purchasing power and re-employment. There was some misgiving over the prospect of war and generally the opinion exists that 1939 may bring a major world crisis. If so this would stagnate business temporarily but ultimately might bring a period of inflation and prosperity. However this price is considered too high to pay for a cure for the economic ills of the country.

The city was quiet on the eve of the new year and generally the people accepted whatever is in store for them determined to proceed conservatively and to co-operate in every way possible to preserve our institutions and to gain some head-way toward permanent stability.

Two Cities Want Indian Collection

Two members of the faculty of Howard Payne University at Brownwood were in Cameron recently to ask J. B. White, editor and publisher of the Cameron Herald, for his collection of Indian relics to be placed in a new museum to be constructed at the university.

The construction of this new museum is a part of the expansion program of Howard Payne College. A special section of the museum was offered the Cameron publisher to house his more than 40,000 pieces of Indian flint rocks.

Recently the Museum of Natural History in Dallas delegated to a member of the Park Board in Dallas the authority to negotiate with the publisher with a view of housing his collection permanently in the city of Dallas.

Mr. White said that he wanted this collection to remain in Cameron and hoped that some provision might be made by the city or the county for a suitable place to display this collection, one of the most valuable in United States.

Headless Skeleton Puzzle to Police

Dijon, France.—Closely following the Weidmann mass murders, French police are faced with the mysterious slaying of an as yet unidentified man near here.

Tied to a tree by steel chains, the skeleton of a headless man was found by a local hunter. His head, either severed at death or torn off by wild animals, was discovered a few yards away.

French police believe it may be the body of a German professor, Dr. Heinrich Helmund, a refugee, who disappeared in France several months ago.

GOAT ONLY FRIEND TO MOURN OLD MAN

Paws Sadly at Door of Shack Where Master Lies Dead.

Winnipeg.—There was only one friend to mourn when a lonely old man died in his tiny, unpainted shack in a corner of a lumber yard at St. Boniface, near here. He was Desire Castiau, seventy-six years old, once a locomotive engineer for the Belgian railways, once an expert machinist.

Thirty years ago Castiau was sent to Canada to install machinery in coal mines at Frank, Alberta. Joyfully, his wife and seven children came with him to the new world. Castiau did his work well, and for years was a valued employee of the mining company and later with a coal company in Edmonton.

But tragedy came to Castiau with a heavy hand. One by one his wife and all their children died. Trying to forget, he moved to St. Boniface, married again, and then moved to Montreal. There his second wife died twelve yaars ago.

Castiau went back to St. Boniface and built his one room house in the lumber yard. In return for the space where his tiny home stood, and for scraps of lumber to feed a small stove, he kept watch on the yards, leading his pet goat, Jeanette, on a chain as he made his rounds.

Workers in the lumber yard, looking toward Castiau's shack one morning, saw for the first time in years that no smoke was curling from the tilted little chimney about the tar papered roof. A yardman went to the house and looked through a window. Castiau was still in bed.

Pounding on the door failed to arouse the old man, so police came and forced their way inside. Castiau had died in his sleep. After his body had been taken away his faithful friend Jeanette pawed mournfully at the door of the tiny shack. For two days the goat refused to be led away, waiting in vain for the master who was no longer there.

Fiance of Deb in Africa Helps Pay for Her Debut

Philadelphia.—In one section of West Africa the "boy friend" helps defray the cost of a girl's debut, according to Henry U. Hall, University of Pennsylvania Museum ethnologist.

Hall, who has returned from an expedition financed by the American Philosophical society, said that in Sherbo, Africa, girls become members of the fashionable set when they were inducted into the "bundu," a secret order.

The girls spend four months in special groves learning manners and then return for their official debut, Hall said.

On the third night of the coming-out party the girls change their dull "khotas" for European frocks, sometimes even silk ones, and there is dancing and palm wine is drunk.

Because of the heavy expense on parents of the deb, the fiance frequently is persuaded to pay part of the cost.

"Most men that can afford it have more than one wife," Hall said.

Pussy Has Hare-Raising Adventure in the Woods

Armonk, N. Y.—Armonk residents looked askance at Sophie, a black cat.

Sophie went on a three months' trip into the woods, according to her owner, F. Freeman Lloyd, and returned with a litter. This wasn't unusual in itself, but two of the kittens, Bunny and Blackie, certainly are unusual. They bear astonishing resemblance to rabbits.

Bunny has the forelegs, chest, teeth, ears and claws of a cat, but its back is high like a rabbit's, and it has long rear legs and it hops. Blackie hops, too, and has a short, fuzzy tail. Both eat carrots, cabbage and lettuce.

Ernest Sapey, manager of a cat shelter, called them "rabcats," and said: "If Sophie could only talk!"

Back Seat "Driver" Fined

Olympia, Wash.—The state law is that the owner is responsible for his automobile, and for whoever is driving it. So Ivan Jones, who was a passenger in his own car, riding in the back seat, was fined $50 for drunken driving because the driver was drunk.

Fish Bites Man and Dog

Mombasa, South Africa.—By biting a native and his dog near Mombasa, a fish routed them and escaped at its leisure.

Mrs. T. B. Stidham,
Jones Prairie Home Dem. Club,
Cameron, Texas, Rt. 2:

"Teaching the young child to form good habits in eating the right kind of foods is the foundation of good nutrition," said Mrs. S. S. Hickman in discussing "Child Nutrition" at the Home Demonstration Club meeting which was held with Mrs. A. L. Burnett, Dec. 22. A child should be taught from the first to develop a desire to eat the proper food. Good habits in eating mean not only body building, but help is character building as well.

The child reflects to a high degree the attitude of the adults in choosing his food. He is a great imitator, and wants to be just like the adults he admires. If father, mother, big sister or big brother do not enjoy carrots, spinach or whatever the menu offers, then you may be sure there will be trouble getting the little one to eat it. He will follow the example set by the "grown-ups."

A normal healthy child is usually eager for his meals, which should be well prepared, and attractively served at well spaced intervals through the day. A child, as well as adults, likes variety in foods, and not the same things day after day. Do not serve too many kinds at one time. A child is naturally a "one-at-a-time" and it's best for him to finish one or two foods before anything else is served in order that he may learn to clear his plate. Then small portions of a new food will induce him to get used to new tastes.

As soon as a child is old enough let him feed himself. It may be a slow, awkward and 'spilly' process at first, but bibs will protect the clothing, and floors can be cleaned. If given gay dishes, a bright bib and table utensils his small hands can handle, he soon learns the joy of accomplishment. As long as a mother feeds the child spoonful by spoonful, worrying the food down, the child will expect it. In fact he doesn't know he has the right to feed himself.

Eating between meals should be discouraged. The stomach should have time to properly digest the food in it, and the child will then have a "hungry appetite," and appreeciate his food. If for good reasons a child seems to not get the amount of food his body needs at the regular meal time, a simple mid-morning and mid-afternoon lunch can be provided but do not allow a child to eat at any and all hours.

It is bad policy to discuss before a child his likes and dislikes. He should be treated in a matter of fact way and not allowed to be the center of attraction. This is gained sometime by refusing his food; playing at the table; and acting cute. These tactics should be ignored and not made a topic of conversation before the child.

A very young child's diet differs greatly from that of the adult and where he eats with the family he can be trained to know that he does not eat the same dishes that grown-ups eat any more than he wears grown up clothes. As he grows older his diet becomes gradually the same as that of adults.

Some children need a rest before meals. This can be determined by the mother. But a child ill, tired or upset for any reason should eat lightly if at all.

There are 6 vitamins, which have been well studied and fairly well understood, which are essential to the growth and development of the human body. A knowledge of these and their special uses, and the foods in which they are found, is very necessary in selecting and preparing the proper diet for a child. A vitamin chart can be obtained by every mother. This with the advise of her physician are her best aids in bringing up her family.

After the regular program a round table discussion lent interest to the meeting.

A delicious salad plate with coffee was served to six members and the following visitors: Miss Roxie Allday and Sussie Atkinson and Mesdames W. A. Atkinson and J. A. Jamison.

Mrs. Alver Gravender, poultry production demonstrator of the Ad Hall Home Demonstration club has records to show a profit on her 1938 poultry work. As this was her first year on the farm, she had everything to provide except 60 not very good hens. Mrs. Gravender's plans were to provide a house and to practice good management, sanitation and proper feeding.

The house of sheet iron, some new and some old, was built at a cost of $10.50.

Mrs. Gravender is working toward a good breed of Rhode Island Reds. This year she sold off 26 hens of another breed and added 102 good Rhode Island chicks.

Rigid sanitation and a good feeding system resulted in raising 90 of these chicks.

Receipts to October 19th were:

Eggs	$88.80
Old hens sold	24.42
Fryers	17.12
Total	$130.34
Expenditures for house, brooder and feed	$80.01
Profit	$50.33

In addition there are 35 hens that will be 2 years old in the spring in of 1939. These will be sold next year.

The young flock consists of 50 Rhode Island Red pullets of which both Mr. and Mrs. Gravender are very proud for both have worked with the flock.

* * *

193 out of 200 baby leghorn pullets were successfully raised by Mrs. S. M. Lawhon, poultry production demonstrator of the Lilac Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. Lawhon used two small brooders 3x4 heated by lamps in a pit under the brooders. Mrs. Lawhon likes these brooders because they are cheap to operate, are satisfactory as a means of keeping the chicks at the right temperature and can be moved easily from place to place. This latter helps in keeping the brooding places sanitary, one of the most important factors in raising chickens.

Judge and Mrs. Jeff T. Kemp have returned from a holiday visit with relatives in Houston where they were honored guests, celebrating their 44th Wedding Anniversary which was solmnized in the first Methodist church in Cameron, Dec. 25, 1894, in the afternoon, with the Rev. J. A. LeClere, pastor, the celebrant. Another interesting and pleasant recollection is that a sister of Judge Kemp Miss Rosa Kemp became the bride of Frank Adams, at the same ceremony, both leaving on the same train for a few days wedding trip. Both couples returned making their homes in Cameron. Later Mr. and Mrs. Adams moved to Jackson, Mississippi where Mr. Adams is a prosperous business man. Mr. and Mrs. Adams were also special guests Christmas day at the home of their daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Pettway in Houston, who entertained with a Christmas dinner honoring her parents and Judge and Mrs. Kemp. During the happy holidays, the Kemps enjoyed a reunion of the Kemp family at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Kemp in Houston. Others of the Kemp family present were: Mr. and Mrs. George Byrum, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Tucker, of Houston. Demmie Kemp of Oregan, Miss Ruth Kemp of Washington, D. C., and Thompson Kemp of Heidenheimer, were not present. Good wishes are extended to the Kemp family for many happy reunions in the future.

Mrs. Adolph Hanel,
Ad Hall Home Dem. Club,
Cameron, Texas, Rt. 1:

"For years our nation has had a conservation program to save our mineral wealth to realize a more importance to conserve the health of the nation's children," Mrs. Hugo Boedeker told the Ad Hall club in the meeting on Monday, November 28 at the home of Mrs. Adolph Hanel.

Since 1938 the President of the United States is making the first of May National Child Health Day. This year for the first time the week beginning with May Day and ending with Mothers Day was observed as better Parenthood week. Food habits are very important to children that they be good habits in order that the young child may grow and develop normally. If the meals are not regular and his food not ready when he is hungray he becomes irritable and annoys his mother or loses his appetite for his food. When he does get it, the less talk there is about food at the table the better. Miss Bertha Marek in the program on "A Balanced Diet" said "The right food for a child will furnish matrial for good bones, sound teeth. A child should have at least a pint of milk a day. Milk is not a perfect food but it is one valuable for maintaining the well being of all the tissues of the body. Vegetables and fruit are very important for their minerals and vitamins. Bread, potatoes and cereals are important energy foods because of the starch they contain, and meats if not served too often. Liver will furnish iron, and copper to make red blood cells. Sweets should always be served at the end of the meal, otherwise the child's appetite is taken from the food which he should have.

If the child eats between meals, is tired, has poor food habits, he may refuse his food because he is in poor physical condition. The healthy active child usually has a noticeable eagerness for food. A sudden lack of appetite may be a sign of illness. Children as well as adults like variety as much in the way food is prepared as in the food itself. A small portion of food helps a child from habit of not finishing what is placed on his plate. By refusing his food causes mealtimes to be a scene of coaxing, tears, threats, or anger thereby upsetting both child and parent. Their eating utensils should be suitable to their small hands and mouths.

The love of pleasure will not be denied if parents can tear themselves away from their work long enough to teach, their children how to play and to play with them much good can be done. That they don't enjoy the things that young people ought to enjoy it must begin early in the childs life and the parents must set the example. Parents must believe that leisure is necessay both for themselves and for their children. Picnicing is only one way for parents and children to enjoy leisure together.

Few of the club women were making Christmas candy, and pop corn balls. Business and council report was given also. The Ad Hall Home Demonstration club will have a Christmas Party at the home of Mrs. W. D. Shepherd Friday, Dec. 9 at 2 p. m. All are invited.

There were four members and four non-club members present: Mrs. Frank Marek, Mrs. Adolph Hertenberger, Mrs. Henry Pilling, Miss Bertha Marek.

Ada Mae Hinman,
Ass't Home Dem. Agent,
Cameron, Texas:

The 4-H club girls of Milam county have started this year's work on "Making Bedrooms Pretty" and "Raising Poultry" with interest and diligence. Both phases of the work were carried in the county last year and resulted in numberous outstanding achievements.

In the bedroom work, each girl must provide a dresser scarf; arrange all fruniture in room appropriately; refinish at least one piece of furniture; add one accessory and arrange all correctly; and clean room according to directions at least 7 times.

The club members plan to do equally as much toward continuing their work with a good poultry flock. Each girl will add one piece of equipment to help care for eggs—a cooler or basket; kill and dress chickens according to Extension Methods at least 6 times. keep daily poultry records; improve poultry house by ventilating it; and add 15 laying birds to their flock.

As a result of demonstrations already given, there have been 19 dresser scarfs completed and approximately 53 near completion. For decoration of their scarfs, the girls are using Bermuda Faggotting. They are also using the Bermuda Faggotting luncheon cloths, pillow cases, etc., to be given to mothers and friends at Christmas time.

A number plan to accomplish part of their goal on killing and dressing poultry by preparing birds for Christmas dinner.

There are 15 active clubs in the county at present of which 3 are new. The new clubs are Minerva, Rockdale and Branchville.

Ada Mae Hinman,
Ass't Home Dem. Agent,
Milam County:

A summary of the work of Dorothy Shuffield, a Maysfield 4-H club girl, during the past club year shows the results of an "all around" club girl. Not only did she complete her work in bed room and poultry, but also worked with the garden, orchard and general home improvement.

Dorothy added a total of 14 fruit trees, bushes and vines this year and has 25 fruit seed planted for budding in 1939. In her orchard and garden she used disease control recommendations.

A s poultry demonstrator for her club she added 10 pullets to her flock of 20 laying hens; vaccinated the flock against fowl pox; added feedhopper, water rack and oyster shell hopper; and followed sanitation and feeding recommendations.

The home pantry was increased by Dorothy's preservation of 95 quarts of fruit; 50 quarts of vegetables and 20 quarts of jellies, jams and preserves. She also shows a storage of 4 pounds of dired fruit and 50 pounds of nuts.

Improvements in the entire home included 3 bed rooms and a living room by the addition of furniture, bed linens, protectors, woolen covers; dresser scarfs and mattresses—two of which were home made.

She is a good manager, too, when it comes to her individual clothing. First she budgets her clothing expenditures, then keeps within this budget by making a number of her clothes including wraps as well as dresses and undergarments. Since she knows that the care of her cloth ing plays a art in their looks and wearing qualities, she has provided adequate closets with hat stands and shoe racks.

Dorothy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Shuffield; she is 15 years old and is a 2nd year club girl.

FOR SALE

1350 Acres of land, more or less. About 700 acres in Little River Bottom, A-1 state of cultivation, balance pasture, plenty water: river, springs, artesian and surface wells. Plenty wood, tools, teams, plenty; in good condition.

Also stores, warehouses and stock of merchandise in Gause. Reason for wanting to sell, cannot continue under present governmental restrictions and dictations. Want to get rid of my property before the final governmental confiscation comes.

I believe in honesty, integrity, hard work, perseverance, individual initiative, and the right of private ownership of property. Hence I can see no future, but that of inevitable chaos for honest business under the present communistic regime, whose every move tends to encourage laziness, graft, and class hatred. Thrift is being penalized; honesty is being perverted, and individualism is being crushed. Collectivism and regimentation is being thrust upon us by a bunch of political appointees, 80% of whom, I dare say, have never met a pay roll in their lives and were it not for their government jobs, would be on relief themselves.

With our destiny in such hands, I see no other course for the tax payers of this nation but to "Give up the ghost."

His Life Story

The Dallas News

School kinds learn early one of the important facts of life. This is that in each line of work or activity there is a constant checkup to she how well or poor you are doing. In school these checkups show on the grade cards of the pupils. Whether you are making the grade or not depends on what grade you are making.

And this reminds me of other of our radio programs for the young people:

Many little boys and girls are writing us telling us what splendid grades they made last month. And, you know, boys and girls, that we are just as tickled as you over your good grades. Keep up the good work. You know, in many races the race is won simply by getting a good start. The first month of the school year is finished, and so the chances are that those of you starting off the first month so well will come in at the end of the term with flying colors.

We haven't heard from the boys and girls whose grade cards don't show up so well. I think we know why you don't write us. We have been in your shoes. We didn't ever want our mothers to see our report cards, but they saw them just the same. And, you know, folks, to this day I am wondering why my mother didn't scold me when I made a bad grade. Really it hurt worse than if she had, and when the older kids got to thinking thatI just couldn't get as good grades as they did, it made me mad; so I resolved that I would show them. And I did. All of you can do that if you will dig in and show the whole school. Show the teacher, mother and dad that you can do it, that you are just as smart as the other fellow.

Don't Be a Copycat.

And here's a tip to the school boys listening in. You girls don't need to hear this. Boys, it may be hard for you to understand what I am about to say, but I want you to promise that you will think it over a while before you form an opinion about it. Sometime you hear big boys using profanity, and somehow you want to copy them. That is human nature.

You see copycats everywhere. But don't be a copycat. Be original. Let others copycat you. Here's a true story: A nicely dressed young fellow who had just finished college went to see a big businessman to ask for a job. The job paid a good salary, and the applicant with his splendid education had every qualification for it except one. Because of that one failing he did not get the job.

I asked that emloyer why he turned the young man down. His answer was, "Mr. O'Daniel, I am no angel myself, but that young fellow uses profanity and likes to tell stories. And I have some customers who do not like either, even in small doses. I can't afford to lose a single customer That is why I could not hire him" And so, boys, I am passing that idea onto you You are passing through the danger age. Most boys learn to cuss and to tell dirty stories between the ages of 7 and 12. They are two of the hardest habits to overcome that I know of. But I urge you not to cuss or use filthy words.

On the Legislature's Session.

School keeps sometimes in other places than in the little red school house. Sometime ago when the Legislature had been called back into special summer session it made me think in this fashion:

About two weeks ago, we talked about school being out and gave a bit of advie to the 1937 graduates. It now appears that some of the boys over at Austin who thought school was out have been called back for a summer term by Professor James V. Allred. It seems that Jimmy had the boys writing an essay titled The Old Gray Mare Ain't What She Used to Be, or Horses, Horses. He was betting on them finishing the essay by the time regular school was out, but some of the bad boys had sprinkled tacks on the track or put sandbars in the oats or something; so the race wasn't finished yet. So Jimmy got the old bell out and rang it and called the kids back and told them to stay in until the best horse won. So for all those poor Senators and Representatives who must stay in until they get their lessons the Hillbilly boys will sing a little song of condolence.

Seriously speaking, I know a lot of those law makers at Austin. They are a mighty fine bunch of fellows. They get kicked and cuffed around whole lot no matter what they do. If they vote for a measure, the antis get mad at them. If they vote against a measure, the uncles get mad. But if you sift the whole thing, down, you will find that the large majority, if not all of them do what they honsetly believe is the right thing to do, and no doubt much better than the rest of us could if we were in their shoes.

FARM CLUB NEWS

Dorothy Porter,
County Home Dem. Agent,
Cameron, Texas:

A convenient, sanitary pretty kitchen can be achieved in a rent house, Mrs. Grover Todd of the Briary Home Demonstration Club has recently demonstrated.

Mr. Todd did all cabinet work and other building thus holding down the cost. An old dining room side board, a goods box, an old kitchen cupboard some crap lumber and $2.80 worth of new lumber were converted into two built-in cabinets and a broom closet.

A light paper was put on walls canvased with old materials and all woodwork was painted. Dainty curtains and linoleum on the floor made the room pretty and easy to keep clean.

Water has to be hauled so Mr. Todd arranged a cleaned and painted oil drum on a platform outside the kitchen. This is filled as needed. A small sink on the inside is set in a small cabinet that can be easily moved.

The most expensive item in the kithcen is a new stove. Mrs. Todd says, "When we move I can take everything but the paper and paint, and I'll get many times its value even if we should be here only a year."

Through the years

Beginning its 79th year, the Cameron Herald greets its friends and readers on the eve of 1939. This old Journal has gone to its readers each week for more than three-quarters of a century and in the new year we are hopeful that opportunity will be given to us to serve and we ask the co-operation of the public to the end that newspaper standards that have characterized the long history of this old newspaper may be maintained through the coming months.

A number of new policies will be inaugurated by the Herald in 1939. Due to limited space and prospects of restricted income, it will not be able to carry as large a burden of free publicity. Its rates will be increased and a number of changes will be made with the view of improving its business condition, all of which is essential and a policy followed by every successful newspaper.

The Cameron Herald
